DETERMINATION AND REPORT OF THE
REMUNERATION TRIBUNAL

NO. 1 OF 1999

Lay Members of the Industrial Relations Commission of South Australia

1. The Tribunal's Report relating to Determination No. 5 of 1998, stated at paragraph 5.4 the following on the lay members of the Industrial Relations Commission of South Australia:

Whilst the Government's written submission addressed the issue of salary parity between members of the Industrial Relations Commission of South Australia and that of members of the Australian Industrial Relations Commission it is the Tribunal's understanding that the lay members of this jurisdiction wish to consider this submission further. Accordingly the Tribunal confirms that it intends to hear further evidence from the parties before it makes a determination on the matter.

2. On 4 February 1999, the Tribunal received additional information from the lay members and this information, together with the Government's submission were augmented by verbal submissions from Deputy President Stevens and Commissioner McCutcheon, on behalf of the lay members and Mr Green on behalf of the Government.

3. The lay members of the Industrial Relations Commission of South Australia hold 'dual appointments' in that they are appointed under the State Industrial and Employee Relations Act 1994, and also hold appointments, either as Commissioner or Deputy President, under the Federal Workplace Relations Act 1998.

4. The Tribunal was advised that historically the Australian Industrial Relations Commission had resident members in South Australia however this was no longer the case and resulted in the South Australian lay members now being allocated to industry panels.

5. The lay members submitted that the 'effect of the change has been that the lay Commissioners and Deputy Presidents now, on a day to day basis, operate within the two jurisdictions. Their federal work involves unfair dismissal conferences, preliminary points of jurisdiction, arbitrations and membership of appeal benches. They also deal with disputes, award variations and like matters. Unlike the State jurisdiction, the Commissioners are regularly involved in the approval process of certified agreements and disputes relating to the negotiation and renewal of certified agreements. In the State jurisdiction that type of work is confined to Senior Judge Jennings, Deputy President Stevens and Deputy President Hampton.' In addition they pointed out the allocation of unfair dismissals in the Federal jurisdiction is the responsibility of one of the lay members.

6. The Tribunal notes that the lay Commissioners were not seeking a nexus with their Federal counterparts but a narrowing of the salary gap between the Commissioners of the Industrial Relations Commission of South Australia and of the Australian Industrial Relations Commission as a result of the increased complexity of the duties now undertaken by Commissioners of the Industrial Relations Commission of South Australia. The lay Commissioners also indicated that they were not seeking a review of the existing relativity between Commissioner and Deputy President.

7. The current salaries for State and Federal Commissioners are as follows:

State	$125 512 per annum	Effective from 1.11.98
Federal	$130 176 per annum	Effective from 19.8.98

8. The Government submitted that the Tribunal had established the salary for the Commissioners having regard to the 'dual appointments' they held at the time. There was no indication that the salary had been discounted as they were not performing all of the functions of a Commissioner of the Australian Industrial Relations Commission. Therefore there was no basis for the salary to be amended to reflect the current working arrangement where the lay members were actually performing the functions of the Australian Industrial Relations Commission.

9. Having considered the submissions and examined the history of these salaries the Tribunal accepts that the lay members of the Industrial Relations Commission of South Australia are now required to deal in new areas of law not dealt with before and there has been a recent increase in their work complexity. It considers it appropriate to continue the existing salary relativity between Commissioner and Deputy President.

10. Accordingly the Tribunal determines that the salary of the lay members of the Industrial Relations Commission of South Australia will be:

10.1	Commissioner	$126 685 per annum
10.2	Deputy President	$145 688 per annum

11. These salaries will be effective on and from 1 February 1999.

Dated 22 February 1999.

DETERMINATION AND REPORT OF THE
REMUNERATION TRIBUNAL

NO. 2 OF 1999

Electoral Districts Boundaries Commission

1. The Constitution Act 1934, provides for the establishment of an Electoral Districts Boundaries Commission to review and carry out periodic redistribution of the boundaries of the State's House of Assembly electoral districts. The Commission has perpetual succession and the functions of a Royal Commission.

2. The members of the Commission are:

- 2.1 the most senior Supreme Court puisne judge available, appointed by the Chief Justice, to be the Chairman;
- 2.2 the Electoral Commissioner; and
- 2.3 the Surveyor-General.

3. Section 78 (7) of the Constitution Act 1934, states that 'The members of the Commission (other than the Chairman) are entitled to remuneration determined by the Remuneration Tribunal.'

4. When the Remuneration Tribunal determined the remuneration for the Electoral Commissioner it decided (refer to Report relating to Determination No. 2 of 1997) that any remuneration determined in the separate inquiry under section 78 (7) of the Constitution Act would be in addition to the Electoral Commissioner's salary.

5. The Tribunal requested and received from the Chairman, Justice Cox, copies of the 1998 Report of the Electoral Districts Boundaries Commission and a summary of the Commissioner's hours spent at formal meetings and public hearings for the period November 1997 to November 1998. This information did not include the hours Commissioners spent reading relevant materials, preparing for meetings and hearings, or travelling time in attending country hearings.

6. Having regard to the nature and extent of the additional work and responsibility of the two Commissioners, the Tribunal determines that an allowance of $9 500 shall be paid to the Electoral Commissioner and the Surveyor-General.

Dated 22 February 1999.
